

Freiraum OCCUPIED Making Use of Vacant Space

On 11.07. this house in Hein-
Heckroth-Straße 3
was occupied!

We are happy to invite you to visit us at our FreiTraum House this weekend and, above all, in the weeks to come. We want to make use of this vacant space and breathe new life into it to bring the neighborhood—and the entire city's population—together and create spaces for people to meet. The FreiTraum House is meant to be a place for everyone in Giessen to shape the space together, showing solidarity with one another and being there for each other.

SATURDAY	SUNDAY
Live-Music and Day Rave	Bring-your-own brunch
Coffee and waffles	Solidarity Flea Market
Kitchen for everyone (KüFa)	Workshops
cozy get-together in the garden	Face painting for kids
Movie Night	Sports and games
	Kitchen for Everyone (KüfA)

...AND THAT'S EXACTLY HOW IT CONTINUES FROM THERE!

Check out our website for updates—you'll also find our social media channels there.

Good to know - Occupation

First of all, we'd like to warmly invite you to our programme at FreiTraum. In practice, you'll be asked to leave the premises before any eviction or criminal prosecution takes place. Should we be tolerated during the occupation, you will only be liable to prosecution if you are asked to leave by JLU and yet remain in the building anyway. Even then, however, a criminal complaint and the university's intention to prosecute are required.

We'll keep you updated on the current status of the occupation whilst you're there. In any case, people will remain there. Trespassing usually results in a small fine. The more of us there are, the safer we are.

Of course, we are not encouraging anyone to commit criminal offences. :)

Awareness- Concept

Awareness teams at FreiTaum-Haus are available to people who have experienced discrimination, violence, or boundary violations and are seeking support in dealing with these experiences—you can recognize them by their purple armbands and/or purple vests. In the context of political actions, we also understand awareness work as a collectively supported regulation of the nervous system.

In addition, the team is there to address any perceived power imbalances (e.g., cis-male dominant behavior), discrimination, exclusion, and to help manage acute triggers (events that cause personal distress). The awareness team is also available to support people who have experienced police violence. We work in solidarity with and on the side of those affected. In doing so, the power to define the violence and/or boundary violations experienced lies entirely with the person affected.
